COO Håkan Malm to step down

eEducation Albert AB (publ) today announces that Chief Operating Officer Håkan Malm has resigned to become CEO of a software company outside the edtech sector. He will remain in his current role until 11 February 2027.

Following Albert's transformation into a simpler and more focused business, the COO role will not be replaced. Håkan's responsibilities will be distributed within the management team, and the resources released will be redirected towards accelerating the development of Albert's AI-powered maths learning platform, a key driver of future growth, and towards strengthening the team behind it.

"Håkan has been a valued colleague and has played an important part in Albert's transformation. I would like to thank him for his efforts and wish him every success in his new role," says Fredrik Bengtsson, CEO of eEducation Albert.
