Isofol's Chief Financial Officer to leave the company

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, June 12, 2024 – Isofol Medical AB (publ) (Nasdaq Stockholm: ISOFOL) announces today that Magnus Hurst, Chief Financial Officer, is leaving the company at the beginning of September for family reasons.

Magnus Hurst has held the position as CFO on a part-time consultancy basis since January this year. During the autumn, Magnus will be going on parental leave and will therefore leave his consulting assignment in the company. Isofol is now starting a recruitment process to appoint a successor.

"I would like to thank Magnus for his work at Isofol during this period. His strong competence in financial matters paired with his leadership and personality have added a lot of value to the company. I regret that he is leaving, but fully understand the decision to devote more time to his family," says Petter Segelman Lindqvist, Isofol's CEO.

"Isofol has a goal-oriented and hard-working organisation with a clear strategy to conduct a well-tailored clinical study of arfolitixorin. It has been exciting to participate in the company's work and I want to thank Petter, the board and other employees for the trust given to me," says Magnus Hurst, CFO of Isofol.

Magnus will continue in his role as CFO until September 2, 2024.
