Soltech's Dutch subsidiary 365zon wins new solar contract with an order value of SEK 28 million

365zon has started 2024 with a new solar energy auction win for the Netherlands' largest association for homeowners. The winning assignment means that 365zon expects to install solar panels on hundreds of houses during 2024. The order value for the deal amounts to approximately SEK 28 million.

The Dutch solar energy company 365zon has once again won a solar energy order for the largest homeowners' association in the Netherlands. The association organizes solar energy auctions to offer its members opportunities to obtain market-leading solar consulting and installation services.

The new contract means that 365zon expects to install solar panels on hundreds of houses during Q1 and Q2 of this year.

– It feels great that we have started 2024 with a good auction win. We are pleased to once again have been given the trust to assist our customers in their sustainability efforts, says Lars Buuts, CEO of 365zon.

– I want to express my congratulations to Lars Buuts and his team who have started this year with an impressive accomplishment. To get renewed confidence from a homeowners association proves that 365zon is considered as a very trustworthy company to cooperate with, says Stefan Ölander, CEO of Soltech Energy.
