

Norwegian company Paxon joins XPartners

XPartners continues to grow in Norway and now welcomes Paxon to the group. Paxon is a well-established Norwegian consultancy with approximately 30 employees and offices in Stavanger and Haugesund. The company specializes in project management, project administration, HSE coordination, and construction management, and has a balanced portfolio of assignments across both public and private sectors.

In addition to its core offering in project management, project administration, HSE coordination, and construction management, the company also provides a smaller range of digital add-on services through Paxon Digital – an initiative that supports clients with technology, design, and communication during the start-up phase of projects.

“Paxon expands our geographical presence in the Norwegian market and strengthens our expertise in project management. The company has demonstrated steady growth and has built a strong reputation in the region. We look forward to developing together and exploring new collaboration opportunities within the group,” says Sonny Mirborn, CEO of XPartners.

“Becoming part of XPartners feels like a natural next step in our continued journey. We share values around entrepreneurship and long-term thinking, and we look forward to both contributing to and benefiting from the group’s extensive network,” says Geir Åge Miljeteig, CEO of Paxon.
