

Odd Molly recruits Niklas Zuckerman as new CEO and Anders Nordvall as Deputy CEO and Head of Transactions

Odd Molly International AB (publ) has great ambitions and high goals for the company's continued growth in warehousing and logistics properties. As part of the continued expansion, Niklas Zuckerman has been recruited as the new CEO and Anders Nordvall as Deputy CEO and Head of Transactions. Niklas and Anders have both extensive experience and expertise in the Swedish real estate market and real estate transactions from various leading roles over the past 20 years. The duo will take on their new roles no later than December 2021.

Odd Molly International has high goals for the company's continued growth as a challenger in warehousing and logistics properties. The company currently owns 26 warehouse and logistics properties with a leasable area of 160,100 square meters with a value of 1,342 MSEK, all located within attractive logistics hubs.

The recruitment of Niklas Zuckerman and Anders Nordvall creates a strong starting point to accelerate the company's continued growth and shareholder value. With Niklas and Anders' extensive experience, leadership and expertise, Odd Molly's already strong management team is further strengthened.

Niklas, incoming CEO, is 45 years old and has a Master's Degree in Engineering. Niklas has been a Partner for three years and has been responsible for Savills' Swedish transaction advice. Prior to that, Niklas was a Partner and Head of Capital Markets at Cushman & Wakefield. In addition, Niklas has a long-term employment from Catella Corporate Finance.

Anders, incoming Deputy CEO and Head of Transactions, is 49 years old and has a Master's Degree in Engineering. Anders is currently a Partner and Deputy CEO at Savills Sweden. Prior to that, Anders was a Partner and CEO of Cushman & Wakefield in Sweden and before that CEO of Catella Corporate Finance.

Niklas and Anders are some of the most respected transaction advisors in the Swedish real estate market. With their experience and expertise, Odd Molly's management is further strengthened, ready to realize the company's high goals, says Patrik Tillman, Chairman of the Board Odd Molly International AB.

The current CEO of Odd Molly International, Jennie Högstedt Björk, will remain in her role until Niklas Zuckerman takes on the CEO role. Jennie then transitions to fully focus on leading the fashion business.

Niklas and Anders are expected to start their new roles no later than December 2021.
