

Acast's CEO Ross Adams temporarily on medical leave

Acast AB (publ) announces that CEO Ross Adams will be on a temporary medical leave for health-related reasons for up to three months. Emily Villatte, Deputy CEO and CFO, has been appointed to serve as Acting CEO of Acast, effective today, during Ross' absence.

"The Board wishes Ross a quick and full recovery. We have full confidence in Emily Villatte as Acting CEO and management's ability to ensure continuity and stability during this period", says John Harrobin, Chairman of the Board of Acast.

Emily Villatte, Deputy CEO and CFO of Acast, has been part of Acast's management since 2019.

For more information

Emily Villatte, Acting CEO and CFO, Acast
Tel: +46 76 525 01 42
E-mail: emily.villatte@acast.com

About Acast

Since 2014, Acast has been creating the world's most valuable podcast marketplace, building the technology which connects podcast creators, advertisers and listeners. Its marketplace spans over 140,000 podcasts, 3,300 advertisers and one billion quarterly listens. Crucially, those listens are monetized wherever they happen - across any podcasting app or other listening platform.

The company operates worldwide and is headquartered in Stockholm, Sweden. Acast is listed on the Nasdaq First North Premier Growth Market (ACAST.ST). Certified Adviser is FNCA Sweden AB, info@FNCA.se.

This information is information that Acast is obliged to make public pursuant to the EU Market Abuse Regulation. The information was submitted for publication, through the agency of the contact persons set out above, at 2025-05-10 18:51 CEST.

Attachments

Acast's CEO Ross Adams temporarily on medical leave