

Codemill secures multi-year contract with tier-1 studio, adding 2,7 MSEK in annual recurring revenue via Dolby partnership

Umeå, Sweden – February 9th 2026 – Codemill AB (Nasdaq: CDMIL) has partnered with Dolby Laboratories Inc. (NYSE: DLB) to offer OptiView Engine - a high quality, real time streaming service, supporting playback of Dolby Vision and Dolby Atmos, along with other HDR and SDR media formats, directly in the web browser.

Following this strategic agreement, Codemill signed a multi-year contract with a global tier-1 content studio, to supply Accurate.Video with OptiView Engine, worth annual recurring revenue (ARR) of 2,7 MSEK with a planned go-live date in Q1 2026.

Dolby's OptiView Engine SaaS works seamlessly with Codemill's Accurate Player, Accurate.Video and Cantemo web applications, used by major studios, broadcasters and global brands, for high quality media playback, asset management, content validation, Quality Control (QC), logging and frame accurate segmentation workflows.

In addition to the above use cases, OptiView Engine can be used by global streaming service Ad Tech teams, to deliver just-in-time advertising for FAST channels and AVOD platforms, ensuring a consistent, high-quality viewing experience for consumers, as well as for media professionals.

"OptiView Engine is the next generation of high-quality media streaming and playback experience, essential for content operations teams, working with premium content", commented Maria Hellström, CEO of Codemill. "We are proud to partner with some of the biggest players in the industry to provide advanced solutions to support our customers in their transformation to cloud based and future proof solutions."
