

Hilbert Group's Syntetika Advances to Final Launch Preparation Following Completion of Core Legal and Operating Framework

Hilbert Group AB (Nasdaq: HILB B), a leading investment firm focused on bridging traditional and digital assets, today announced that its subsidiary, Syntetika, is moving closer to launch - with key milestones completed across legal structure, fund operations, and core infrastructure.

The project has established its Cayman Foundation and incorporated SYNT (BVI) Ltd, thereby completing the core legal and operating framework required to support investor onboarding, custody arrangements, and future product expansion. A fund administration agreement has also been executed, an important milestone in building the operational foundation required for institutional-grade product delivery.

In parallel, Syntetika has advanced its core infrastructure, including vault architecture, custody workflows, and NAV reporting systems. Key capital-flow mechanics have been validated through internal testing, including completion of an initial profit-distribution process. API-based reporting and oracle-linked data infrastructure are being implemented to support transparent and reliable performance tracking.

Production readiness work continues across custody configuration, vault deployment, and end-to-end operational testing, with a controlled launch model designed to scale toward greater automation over time.

Syntetika is also progressing discussions with liquidity providers, infrastructure partners, and distribution channels, with a focus on building a high-quality institutional base ahead of launch.

Near-term priorities include finalizing custody arrangements, completing production deployment, and validating operational and reporting workflows. Management believes recent progress materially strengthens the platform's readiness for launch.

John Lilib, CEO of Syntetika comments: "This is a meaningful inflection point for Syntetika. We have now put in place the core legal structure, operational framework, and infrastructure required to move toward launch with confidence. These are foundational milestones, not cosmetic ones — they are what enable a platform like ours to onboard capital, operate reliably, and scale responsibly. Our focus now is on disciplined execution and delivering a launch that meets institutional expectations from day one."
