Quickbit launches EUR account and introduces sell feature in Quickbit App

Today's launch of EUR accounts in Quickbit App makes Quickbit unique in the Swedish crypto market by allowing users to exchange crypto for traditional currencies on its mobile-first platform. Quickbit has thus further advanced its crypto offering toward a market-leading position in Sweden.

While users can already buy, store, exchange, send and receive cryptocurrencies in Quickbit App, the launch of EUR accounts allows users to sell cryptocurrencies for traditional currencies directly in Quickbit App. Through linking an international bank account number (IBAN) to their EUR account, users can also send and receive EUR to and from accounts with other banks.

Additional services will be introduced gradually, including the possibility of buying cryptocurrency directly from EUR accounts, instead of solely through card purchases. As with Quickbit Card*, these services are being developed as part of a strategic partnership between Quickbit and Intergiro. In parallel, work is ongoing to add more cryptocurrencies in Quickbit App to give users access to a broader crypto portfolio.

"Today's release is a strategically important milestone in our endeavour to make cryptocurrencies useful in everyday life. Moreover, it comprises a unique package of services in Sweden that helps users move easily and seamlessly between crypto and traditional currencies. We will continue to develop additional features that facilitate the use of cryptocurrencies," says Hammad Abuseifan.
