

Quickbit launches Quickbit App on the norwegian market

Quickbit is now launching the Quickbit App on the Norwegian market and enables Norwegian consumers to buy, exchange, send and receive cryptocurrency in a few seconds.

In August, the Quickbit App was made widely available to the public on the Swedish market. The Quickbit App is now also available for consumers in the Norwegian market. With Norwegian BankID, Norwegian consumers can download the app and start using cryptocurrencies immediately. In connection with this, the Quickbit App will be available in both the App Store and Play Store in Norway and supports the cryptocurrencies Bitcoin, Bitcoin Cash, Litecoin and Ethereum.

The launch of the Quickbit App on the Norwegian market is the next step in Quickbit's journey to simplify the use of cryptocurrency in everyday life for people around the world.

The functions in the app include buy, exchange and the ability to send and receive cryptocurrencies. Quickbit plans to continuously update the app by developing features and solutions using feedback from users. The next step is to offer the sales function by adding EUR accounts also for Norwegian users.

"We see it as an important sub-goal to take the first step towards an internationalization of our consumer offering. Now we can continue to broaden our offer and reach more consumers interested in crypto with our products. We will continue to work hard to take our offering to new markets and add more useful features to our existing and future users," says Hammad Abuseifan, CEO Quickbit.
