KEBNI RECEIVES ANOTHER ORDER FOR ADVANCED INERTIAL MEASUREMENT UNITS

KebNi AB (publ.) receives an order for NAV02 inertial measurement units with a total value of 8 600 EUR (approx. 92 KSEK)

Stockholm, 10 March 2022 – Kebni announces today that they have received another order for multiple inertial measurement units (IMU) from a renowned mining company.

Kebni's multisensor units play a key role for navigation and system safety on the company's fleet of underground vehicles, where it's installed as a vital subsystem on every autonomous vehicle.

"We're involved in several interesting discussions relating to vehicle navigation, both autonomous and assisted solutions. This order verifies Kebni's attractive offer for high-requirement vehicle navigation in harsh environments." says Erik Winther, Head of Inertial Sensing Sales at Kebni.
