Enersense, a provider of zero-emission energy solutions, and Elisa, a Finnish telecommunications and digital services company, have signed an add-on turnkey contract for the construction of Elisa's Fibre to the Home optic fibre network in Finland. The total value of the add-on contract is EUR 35 million, and it more than doubles the volume of optic fibre networks Enersense will construct for Elisa in 2024–2026. The contract will be included in Enersense's Connectivity business area's second quarter 2023 order book. The contract is an extension of the companies' long-term cooperation.

Enersense is responsible for the turnkey delivery, which contains the project management, planning and construction of the network, materials logistics, and customer deliveries.

“We are very pleased that our cooperation in building Elisa's fibre-to-the-home (FTTH) connections is continuing. Building a zero-emission society is at the core of Enersense's strategy, and high-speed optical fibre networks have a role to play in this. FTTH construction is expected to grow significantly in Finland in the coming years. It is great that our customers are relying on Enersense's optical fibre network construction services, and that our business operations are growing with the market,” says Jussi Holopainen, President & CEO, Enersense.
