Enersense, a provider of zero-emission energy solutions, and Valoo Oy, a Finnish fibre-optic network company, have signed an agreement on the maintenance of Valoo's fibre-optic network. The two-year agreement includes the maintenance and further construction of the Valoo fibre-optic network in Southern Finland and will be recorded in Enersense Connectivity's order books for the second quarter of 2024. The agreement can be extended by exercising a two-year option.

“During the last 12 months, the Valoo fibre-optic network expanded to more than 30 towns, bringing fast and uninterrupted Internet connections based on the fibre-optic technology to more and more Finnish homes. Our work continues, and Enersense is the perfect partner for us to maintain our fibre-optic network in Southern Finland and also build fibre-optic connections for those who are still thinking about shifting to the technology,” says Juha Kirmanen, Director of Construction at Valoo.

“We are already partnering with Valoo in its fibre-optic network building projects, and we are happy that our cooperation in the maintenance and further construction of the network will now expand. This agreement is a clear indication of our expertise and its appreciation, as well as the benefits of long-term cooperation for the customer,” says Miika Erola, Vice President of Enersense Connectivity.
