Kebni receives Satcom order valued 10 MSEK

Kebni has received an order from Israel Aerospace Industries (IAI) for Maritime Satcom antennas. The total order value is approx. 10,4 MSEK (1 MUSD) and deliveries are planned for 2023.

Stockholm 31 March 2023 – Sweden-based tech company Kebni has received a new order from long-term customer IAI, for delivery of Stabilized, military maritime satcom antennas. The total order value is approx. 10,4 MSEK (1 MUSD). Deliveries are planned for 2023.

“We are honored that IAI, a world leader in defence and aerospace, puts their trust in Kebni and our maritime satcom solutions once more. This is the second order that Kebni receives from IAI after the initial development project that was completed mid-2022. We are looking forward to continuing supporting IAI with state-of-the-art satcom innovations to help optimize their offering” says Torbjörn Saxmo, CEO.

Kebni's advanced stabilized maritime satcom antennas (VSAT terminals) are used for mission critical satellite communications, crucial for defence, intelligence, humanitarian aid and emergency response missions.
