Gaming Corps & PDP sign agreement to develop prototypes showcasing breakthrough technology

Gaming Corps has signed an agreement with Performance Designed Products to develop a series of prototypes showcasing a new breakthrough technology. The prototypes will be developed during 2016's last quarter in Gaming Corps recently acquired Red Fly Studio and could lead to additional developments with PDP.

“We are delighted that PDP chose Red Fly, now owned by Gaming Corps as its preferred studio to develop new video games based on its breakthrough technology” - Magnus Kolaas, CEO, Gaming Corps.

About Performance Designed Products
