

Kebni receives first volume order from Saab valued 76 MSEK

Kebni announces the first volume order to deliver tailor-made Inertial Sensing units that the company is developing for Saab's NLAW System. The order is part of a previously communicated framework agreement and deliveries will start mid-2023.

Karlskoga, 14 October 2022 – KebNi AB (publ) today announces the first volume order from Saab to produce and deliver a tailor-made IMU (Inertial Measurement Unit) that Kebni is developing specifically for Saab's NLAW antitank weapon system. The order value is approximately SEK 76,4 million and deliveries are scheduled for 2023-2024.

“We are proud to support Saab in bringing their game-changing capabilities to the market and are looking forward to continuing this successful collaboration. The order is a crystal-clear message to the global market that Kebni is a capable supplier and solution provider to rely on for critical needs.” – Erik Winther, Head of Sales Inertial Sensing, Kebni

In June 2020, Saab awarded Kebni a framework agreement to develop and deliver a tailored IMU. As previously communicated, the final development work was ordered earlier this year. Through this new order, volume deliveries will commence in mid-2023, in accordance with Saab's requested time plan and five years ahead of the original plan.
