Stockholm 2024-01-12

Today the exercise period for warrants of series TO2 begins

JonDeTech Sensors AB (publ) ("JonDeTech" or the "Company") announced yesterday the subscription price for TO2 at SEK 0.0234 where each warrant gives the right to subscribe for one (1) new share in JonDeTech. The subscription period runs from today until January 26, 2024.

- The last thing that happened in 2023 was that we carried out the first delivery of the packaged sensor JIRS40. The delivery was an essential milestone for JonDeTech; partly, it was the first product delivery, and partly, it is a clear signal to other potential customers that we can now start delivering JIRS40 in volume. It was also the start of the commercialization journey that lies ahead of us in 2024. The year also barely had time to start before we signed a first distributor agreement, which we expect will be followed by many more during the year, says Leif Borg, CEO of JonDeTech, and continues:

- With a strong focus on customer dialogues and sales, we now run several exciting activities in the company. We have a clear plan for building a robust and efficient organization based on a fabless structure. With a broad portfolio of products complementing each other, we have an attractive offer to present to distributors and customers. I look positively on the future and, for my own part, will sign the TO2s that I own. I hope more people want to sign up for new shares and continue to be part of the journey.
