Helsingborg, Sweden, October 3, 2022

MilDef to exhibit at AUSA 2022, the largest army and defense exhibition in the U.S.

On October 10-12th MilDef will be exhibiting at AUSA, the Association of the U.S. Army's Annual Meeting and Exposition in Washington D.C. MilDef will showcase its full scope of hardware, software and services for Tactical IT. Also, for the first time at AUSA, MilDef will showcase OneCIS, a quantum leap in rapid deployment of IT services at the Tactical Edge.

AUSA is the place to address top US and global military leaders on MilDef's cutting edge Tactical IT for continued transformation and digitalization of defense forces internationally. This year's theme is "Building the Army of 2030."

Among a wide array of computers, servers, tablets, displays and special electronics for modernizing the battlefield, MilDef presents the second generation of handheld robot controllers, RC 2100, as well as a SWaP-optimized mini ethernet switch. At AUSA 2022 MilDef will be announcing its US launch of the new solution for rapid deployment of IT services at the Tactical Edge, OneCIS. MilDef's OneCIS solution enables deployment of IT services to for instance mobile commands, tactical units and first responders.

"AUSA is the place to be to tap into the world's largest defense market. It's a perfect platform for MilDef to team up with customers and partners that are devoted to build the future army, in both the US and in coalition and NATO-markets. MilDef has a key role to play in the modernization of defense capabilities. Our offerings of hardware, software and services help to accelerate the much-needed digitalization of platforms, especially important for the audience of the AUSA convention", says Björn Karlsson, CEO MilDef Group.
