Polygiene expands foothold in workwear segment with order for odor-free shirts for the Belgian Post

The Belgian Post Group, known as bpost, has turned to Polygiene AB to provide odor-free workwear to its employees. Workwear treated with Polygiene Odor Control Technology will help bpost staff stay fresh and confident on the job. Delivery of Polygiene-treated odor-free polo shirts to bpost is slated to begin by the end of the year.

Bpost is the leading operator of postal services and logistics solutions to, from and within Belgium. The partnership further cements Polygiene's relationship with bpost and advances Polygiene's position in the odor-free workwear market.

"We are very proud to work with the Belgian Post Group," says Christian von Uthmann, CEO of Polygiene. "Our partnership with bpost is proof positive that Polygiene is making inroads into the workwear segment as we already serve as the reliable provider of odor-free solutions for Deutsche Post, DHL and Propper, makers of high-quality apparel for law enforcement and military professionals."
