

PRESS RELEASE

Malmö, 20th December 2017

Follow Polygiene's Stays Fresh Technology in the Global Market through Polygiene News

Polygiene, the global market leader in Stays Fresh Technology, is publishing Polygiene News, an in-depth newsletter with regular commercial updates on the latest developments in the company's global operation.

The newsletter complements other investor relations communications, and is to be distributed between the company's quarterly reports, in English two to three times per year. Polygiene has a high growth rate and is able to report news on a routine basis about its partners, product launches and technological advances. It also provides deeper insight into, and a global perspective of, developments in the Stays Fresh Technology market.

"We are publishing Polygiene News as a service to shareholders," says Christian von Uthmann, CEO of Polygiene. "The newsletter serves as an effective channel to share information about company activities as well as news of general interest with our shareholders and the market."
