Core Keeper* Takes to the Waves with 'The Sunken Sea' Content Update, Launching June 15

Pugstorm and Fireshine Games are proud to present the first major content update to Core Keeper, the mining sandbox adventure head out on a seafaring adventure and discover uncharted islands in Core Keeper's 'The Sunken Sea' update.

Since launching on Steam Early Access in March, Core Keeper has become Fireshine Games' fastest-selling digital title of all time, with almost 1 million players now having started their underground adventure. The game is also officially verified for Steam Deck, allowing Steam Deck users to continue their mining adventure on the go.

'The Sunken Sea' will be available as a free update to all Core Keeper players, 'The Sunken Sea' will introduce a brand-new water-based biome filled with large, mysterious bodies of water to explore and islands to uncover. Take to the seas in boats and discover a colourful new ore, Octarine, on your adventure to defeat Omoroth the Sea Titan, a brand-new titan boss lurking beneath the ocean waves.

Core Keeper is a 1-8 player mining sandbox adventure set in an ancient cavern of creatures, treasures and trinkets. Mine relics and resources to build your base, craft new equipment and survive. Defeat giant monsters, discover hidden secrets, farm crops, go fishing, cook new recipes and explore a procedurally generated underground world to unravel the mystery of the ancient core.

"We've worked really hard to deliver an expansive and meaningful line-up of new content for Core Keeper players to discover with The Sunken Sea update," said Sven Thole, CEO & Animator at Pugstorm. "We are listening closely to suggestions and feedback from our community and we are very excited for players to discover everything The Sunken Sea has to offer when it rolls out later this week."

'The Sunken Sea' will be launching this Wednesday, June 15.
