

White Pearl Technology Group to deliver IT resources for over SEK 20 million to South African municipality

The City of Tshwane Metropolitan Municipality, situated in the densely populated area of Gauteng in South Africa, serves over three million residents and has appointed WPTG as a strategic partner through a tender process. White Pearl Technology Group AB (WPTG) will provide IT services and skills to optimize its mission-critical systems for a period of three years, at a value of more than SEK 20 million.

WPTG's subsidiary, InTheNet Technologies (ITNT), based in South Africa, is the key strategic partner that will support Tshwane on site, with its critical IT systems across key areas such as finance, billing systems, human capital management, utilities, services, and more. ITNT's experienced IT consultants and specialists will be working closely with the municipality's teams.

"Being selected as a key partner by the City of Tshwane demonstrates our commitment to enabling public sector organizations to optimize their system performance through IT experts and knowledge transfer," said Marco Marangoni, Global CEO of WPTG."

WPTG's subsidiary, ITNT, has an extensive track record of successfully supplying IT consulting services and skilled IT talent to both public and private sector organizations across South Africa.

"We are proud to bring our expertise and capabilities in delivering technology resources to help the City of Tshwane optimize the use of its mission-critical IT systems," said Gordon Colyn, Managing Director of ITNT. "This appointment highlights our mission to help government institutions succeed with their digital transformation."

The new contract expands WPTG's presence in the government sector in South Africa and across the African continent.
